

Article 197: A limited Bit About Unlimitedness

From the beginning, all limitations and restrictions have been self-imposed and self-maintained through judgments and misbeliefs, is that the lifeseff you want to continue? And though you would resoundingly proclaim your willingness to free yourself and live an unlimited self and life, it seems that, even to live in this way, you are unwilling to surrender your judgments; ...you want to be free, while securely tethering yourself with judgments. ...does that seem reasonable to you?

Since you have complete free will in your life ...and the universe unconditionally and emergently fulfills your every belief, thought, attitude, emotion, word, and action, it is obvious that, in your life, you are omnipotent and unrestricted, and only by sacrificing your free will to live your judgments do you impose limitations upon yourself. Ohh, certainly, you have the free will and power to live your judgments and limitations, but why do that ...when you long so to be free and unlimited? Stop living the judgmental language of worldly misbeliefs and affairs in such a wondrous life as yours; ...constantly remind yourself that the concepts of language are frequently more misleading, confining, and limiting than illuminating and freeing. Think and live beyond those limiting beliefs, ...lift your ideas and vision and concepts “beyond and above” the ordinary ...to the extraordinary. Judgment, emotion, and repetition are the strongest links that limit and bind you; ...and denials ‘blind you. A single emotional experience, whether moving or disturbing, can limit you ever more tightly ...or free you forever. Previous associations are fierce enemies or strong friends, but it seems you have created more enemies than friends, ...however, you have a tremendous ability to unbind and right yourself by ending your judgments and living the self and life you truly desire.

Your oldest and strongest, most emotion-filled belief is that you are limited and essentially powerless in an overwhelming universe, ...well, don't you believe it! ...for all of life seeks only to unconditionally serve your needs and desires, ...but you don't believe that either, do you? Only these beliefs are limiting you, ...and when you end the belief that the world and everything in it is against you, you will stop judging and see and experience the unlimited truth of yourself ...as you have lived and embodied that. Your memories of the past are not dead records filed away, they are ever-living, persistent forces within you which can either drive you and enhance you ...or seriously limit you. You are fully capable of directing these dynamic forces as you truly desire, but you will only do so by ending your judgments, ...for that alone is the key to unlocking the emotional chains that bind you ...and limit you, for you, ...are truly unlimited.

Stop asking to be set free, ...set your conscious and emotional judgments down and live the unlimited self and life you truly desire, for the universe will fully and unconditionally support you ...and emergently fulfill you. What are you waiting for?

If you seek to be free and unlimited, you certainly must have some idea or vision of what you want to live and achieve, ...do you not? If not, maybe it is not freedom and unlimitedness you seek, but you want to avoid or get free of your present self-imposed limitations.