

Article 394: Outside the Box -part 11

Spirit is not unity or oneness, it is individuality! ...it is authentic and genuine! Moving beyond cause and effect moves you beyond unity and balance ...and harmony ...even without contradictions or opposing forces, for unity•balance•harmony is actually life and beliefs founded upon overcoming separation, disharmony, resistance, and conflict, ...so what possibly lies beyond unity and balance ...and harmony? Individuality as you genuinely prefer is greater than unity or oneness ...and far greater than balance and harmony!

Remember, if that which is greater than is not also lesser than that which it is greater than, it is not greater than, ...therefore, you are greater than a God that is omniscient~all-knowing~and omnipotent~all-powerful, for such a God can and must only be all-knowing and all-powerful; ...I guess that's obvious ...wouldn't you say? What doesn't seem so obvious is that in this you are greater than an all-knowing•all-powerful God. In the same way, your preferred individuality is far greater than unity or oneness. Do not seek unity or try to live "the oneness", ...fully live and genuinely offer your uniqueness ...and revel in that greatness.

Unity and balance ...and harmony without contradictions or opposing forces are not benefits of life without disharmony, resistance, or conflict ...for, in your languaging, unity•balance•harmony maintain disharmony, resistance, and conflict as the very essence and source of its life.

The ignorance of disharmony, resistance, and conflict ...and, as well, the ignorance of unity•balance•harmony can only be relieved through self-awareness of your preferred-individuality, ...are you willing to eternally be and live your preferred uniqueness ...as you have declared and promised? ...if so, that alone is authenticity! If separation or unity are issues, you are not authentic; if resistance and conflict or balance and harmony in any form are issues, you are not authentic ...and certainly not the individual you prefer being ...and have promised.

Declare your uniqueness! ...and enliven yourself in that way, ...never seek to discover your uniqueness, ...live it ...and affirm it, ...see yourself in this way beyond cause and effect. Expand your own and others' visions, horizons, experiences, promises, possibilities, and purposes of individuality, ...however, be aware that seeking approval or confirmation in any form quickly lessens and soon destroys your uniqueness, ...are you willing to be unique beyond others' awareness and acceptance ...or even their acknowledgement and respect? Those who are deemed good or wise are not authentic!

In trueminding beyond cause and effect, what you focus on is clearly presented to mind in accordance with how you have promised to express your preferred declaration ...nothing is distorted or withheld, ...actually, what you focus on is not presented to you at all, for as you perceive and animate your focus ...you present it to yourself, ...however this presentment is not “as you are”, it is as you want to enliven and present yourself, or, more correctly stated, it is as you prefer to enliven and promise yourself ...and your world. In this, you are not creating your own reality or universe, you are promising a reality or your universe as your declaration is, ...and, in that, you are making the world over in your own image ...and promising that.

What to you is the difference between fulfilling your desires, promises, visions, and understandings ...and being your desires, promises, visions, and understandings?

Cause and effect individuals in a cause and effect world seek to fulfill their desires, promises, visions, and understandings, ...while privileged beings and individuals enlivened as privileged beings live their desires, promises, visions, and understandings through “offering” ...and in that they are the embodiment of their desires, promises, visions, and understandings.

Fulfilling or attempting to fulfill your desires, promises, visions, and understandings will leave you empty and unknown ...even to yourself struggling endlessly to discover and fulfill yourself, ...while reaching beyond cause and effect to “offer” your desires, promise, visions, and understandings fulfills you with the awareness of who you truly are. Cause and effect keeps you struggling to discover the source of life and everything you desire, ...while beyond cause and effect, you are the source and manifestation of everything you desire.

On the level of privileged beings ...you are as you mind, thus it is wise to carefully mind every belief, thought, attitude, emotion, word, and action ...and every desire, for they are you as you mind them. In minding and living beyond cause and effect, your privileged being shows forth clearly revealed ...for it no longer has a cause and effect mask or covering which conceals your true nature.

Do you remember the mischievous but friendly spirit in Shakespeare’s A Midsummer Night’s Dream who declared, “Oh what a tangled web we weave when first we set out to deceive”? Well, cause and effect is just such a tangled web, ...and in living by cause and effect you are a deceiver! ...deceiving yourself and others that you are different or other than you seem to be, ...why do you suppose that is? If you are struggling to be or become the greater self you perceive and sense yourself to be ...and want to be ...and want to live and express to others, begin by reaching beyond the tangled web of cause and effect to all you are and desire, ...otherwise, you are only deceiving yourself.

Beyond cause and effect, all of life is real and meaningful ...and filled with richness and true contentment that is greater even than joy or happiness.

You can either languish in cause and effect or thrive in your declaration beyond cause and effect! ...for, through consciously joining with your privilegedbeing beyond cause and effect, "great works" can be accomplished by awakening others to the true declaration and promises around which they have formed their life, ...are you willing to reach beyond the shadows and limitations of cause and effect to the fulfilling wonder of life as a privilegedbeing?

Declaring how you will be eternally alive and enlivening yourself in that way transforms your minding from ordinary minding of cause and effect to the true wisdom and privilege of extraordinary minding beyond cause and effect ...where trueoffering far exceeds selfless service to others. Reaching beyond cause and effect and perceiving all of life in that way ...and enlivening yourself in that way is more a mindful activity than a physical doing, ...actually, minding beyond cause and effect makes doing a "non-issue". Do not struggle to become worthy of life beyond cause and effect, for your existence alone reveals your worthiness.
